OVERLAND TRIP

S. B. VAN OSDOLL COMES FROM CHICAGO BY AUTO TO LOCATE IN CALIFORNIA

S. B. Van Osdoll brother of W. M. Van Osdoll of 612 East Elk avenue arrived from Chicago in a trusty Ford machine Friday evening. He was accompanied by his wife and a niece, Miss Clara Montgomery. They left Chicago the 14th of October and traveled continuously except for a two-days' stop at Independence, Mo., to see relatives, and a day's delay at Gallup to make auto repairs after a slight accident. Ten punctures were their record, but had no blow-outs. They had to have the brakes relined, otherwise no serious trouble. Their speedometer showed 2661 miles of travel which included a detour of about one hundred miles from Flagstaff to the Grand Canyon. In their itinerary from Chicago they passed through Joliet, Springfield and Jacksonville, Illinois, crossed the Mississippi River at Louisiana, Mo., picked up the Santa Fe trail at Columbia, came on through Kansas to La Junta, Colorado, from there to Trinidad over the Raton Pass, thence to Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Los Lunas, Gallup, Holbrook, Kingman, Williams, Needles, Barstow and on to Glendale.

Mr. Van Osdoll, who is a carpenter, has been residing in Chicago since 1891. He says labor conditions are very unsettled there, and that labor hardly knows just what it does want. Shortly before he came away the seven-weeks' strike of the carpenters was settled by their securing all the demands made by their union, viz., $1.00 an hour, or the same wages paid to bricklayers and lathers. A two-year agreement was entered into by which both sides agreed that no change should be made in wage schedules without due notice.

Mr. Van Osdoll is much pleased with the roads in this part of California, but says he met some pretty rough propositions on his overland journey, even in California, the road from Goff to Ludlow being very bad. He has come with the intention of locating somewhere in this state, but will not decide where until he has looked around a bit. Next week he is going to Exeter where his nephew, Bert Van Osdoll, is located to see how he likes the outlook there.

MATINEE PARTY

The official board of the Tuesday Afternoon Club for last year, of which Mrs. Harry Duffield as recording secretary was a member, will be entertained Thursday by Mrs. Duffield at a matinee performance of "Civilian Clothes," in which Mr. Duffield has a charming role. The play is now in its twentieth week with no cessation of its popularity. The ladies who will compose the party are: Mrs. W. W. Ramsay, Mrs. E. D. Yard, Mrs. Freeman Kelley, Mrs. Andrew Findlay, Mrs. John Robert White, Mrs. C. E. Norton, Mrs. E. H. Willisford, Mrs. W. F. Nash and Mrs. Helen Campbell.

MRS. J. I. WERNETTE RETURNS

Mrs. J. I. Wernette returned Sunday from a trip of about sixty days in the east where she visited her old home in Grand Rapids, and also renewed acquaintance with friends and relatives in Detroit and Chicago. She returned by way of San Francisco and was very glad indeed to exchange the climate of Michigan—which she had found very rainy and disagreeable for Southern California sunshine. She found the Wernette family established in the new home purchased shortly before her departure and discovered that successful moving was possible without "mother." She is very much delighted with the new location—1330 N. Louise street. She was greatly impressed by the business activity in the east, especially in industrial lines, but for residence Southern California challenges comparison with anything she saw there.

POSSIBLE SWINDLER

Freeman Kelley, the florist, feels that a warning should be issued to merchants and others in regard to accepting checks from strangers. He tells of a man who was unknown to him who entered his place of business Thursday night and ordered a ten-dollar floral piece to be used in Los Angeles. He offered in payment a $42 check, but the cashier told him she could not make change. He then said he would call for the piece the following morning and pay for it then. He never showed up and Mr. Kelley is forced to the conclusion that it was merely a trick to get a bogus check cashed.

WEATHER FORECAST: Clear tonight. White frost probable.

COME TO STAY

MORE MARSHALLTOWN, IOWA, PEOPLE COME TO CALIFORNIA TO MAKE THEIR HOME

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fife of 314 North Orange street enjoyed a call Sunday from Mr. Fife's uncle, and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Morgan, who have come from Marshalltown, Iowa, to make a permanent home in Southern California. For years they have been coming here for the winter and now they have disposed of eastern interests and are here to stay. At the present time they are with a daughter, Mrs. Charles Rhodes, in Los Angeles, while they are looking around. It is possible they will come to Glendale if they find property they like here, as they have quite a circle of friends in this city. Just before they left Marshalltown they celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

WELFARE WORK

The city is sending out letters today to all societies in the community so far as known who are doing welfare work inviting them to a meeting to be held in the city hall in the near future for the purpose of organizing City's Welfare Bureau, enclosing a copy of the proposed constitution. The idea is to get all these societies to co-operate with the city in work of this character in order to systematize it, to cover the ground thoroughly and prevent duplication.

DEATH OF JACOB CHRISTIANSON

Jacob Christianson, who has been a patient at the Canyon Crest Sanitarium since August receiving treatment for a nervous breakdown, committed suicide Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock by inhaling gas. Disengagement over his physical condition and depression of spirit are supposed to have been the cause. The Pulliam & Kiefer Company have charge of the remains and funeral services will be held Friday at the chapel in the Hollywood Cemetery. Deceased was 59 years of age and leaves a wife and family.

PROGRAM AND DANCE

Quite a party of Glendale people visited Los Angeles Friday evening to attend the dedicatory opening of the new social hall and cafeteria which has just been built by the Pacific Mutual Insurance Company for the use and comfort of employees while its new permanent building is in process of construction. It was a program and dance featured by Hallowe'en decorations and it opened with a general "sing," led by Hugo Kirchoffer, and followed by numbers by the glee club made up of girl employees of the company which is under the leadership of Mr. Kirchoffer. This organization gave two beautiful selections and then a wonderful magician was introduced who did some very entertaining stunts. Very nice refreshments were served and the latter part of the evening was given to dancing. Glendale guests who enjoyed the function were: Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Groton and Mr. and Mrs. Whedon.

PINK AND WHITE DINNER

Mrs. E. H. Field, of 209 North Kenwood and her daughter, Miss Bessie Field, entertained very delightfully Friday evening with a dinner which was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomson, on North Jackson street, about seven o'clock. A pink and white color scheme was carried out in the roses with which the table was centered, the table appointments and place cards. Following the dinner the company adjourned to the home of their hostesses where a very pleasant social evening was spent, the guest list including: Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Edmonds, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Isitt, Mr. and Mrs. David Black, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Finley and Mrs. Julia A. Trau of Los Angeles.

ATTRACTIVE NEW HOUSE

George Prikett of 468 Hawthorne street is building a very attractive house on the corner of Hawthorne and Pacific avenue for sale which he expects will be completed by Christmas. He says the demand is for the best class of dwellings with modern improvements which are up to the minute, and of this class he is making the house he is now at work upon. It is of the Colonial type, has a basement in which is a gas furnace and automatic water heater, has hardwood floors and woodwork of ivory finish. As soon as this one is finished and sold he will build another, but has not decided where it will be located.

LONG BEACH AND EAST SAN PEDRO YARDS OPEN WITH MORE MEN THAN ARE NEEDED REPORTING FOR WORK

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONG BEACH, Nov. 10.—The strikes which have kept the shipyards here closed or crippled since May seemed to be ended today. The Southwestern Shipbuilding Company's yard at East San Pedro resumed operations this morning after being closed over a month. Officials said they had more men than they needed.

The Craig and Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company's yards also are operating. Union leaders announced they had called a referendum vote to decide whether to return to work at the Los Angeles yards, but in the meantime the plant is operating with a crew which was organized a few months ago.

UN-AMERICAN PLAY

REV. E. H. WILLISFORD THUS CHARACTERIZES DRAMA, "BROKEN BLOSSOMS"

In his service Sunday evening Rev. E. H. Willisford, pastor of the Glendale Congregationalist Church, referred to Armistice Day to be celebrated Tuesday and to the emotions that swept through the Allied Armies and the people of Europe, particularly France, when the message came that the guns had ceased. He told how the villagers poured out of their houses and embraced each other and embraced the American soldiers, thanking them for their aid in winning the war.

But the theme of Mr. Willisford's discourse was "Broken Blossoms," a review of the movie play so much heralded and advertised as one of the greatest productions ever put upon the screen. "In view of these laudations," he said, "it was not surprising that the manager of the local theatre exhibited the picture here. Indeed, it would have been strange if he had not sought to do so, but to say that Glendale was disappointed was to put it mildly, indeed." Mr. Willisford briefly described the characters and scenes and declared the play was not immoral but was objectionable in a variety of other ways. "First, it was un-American in depicting the street brawl of American soldiers in which the courteous, cultured, dignified, sweet-spirited disciple of Buddha is knocked down and pummeled. The playwright insulted the men of this country. The apparent aim was to exhibit the Chinese as the embodiment of calmness, reserve, dignity and the American as the embodiment of the opposite qualities. I protest against that representation of the men of America and the exhibition of the Orientals at their expense."

In the next place he pronounced the play anti-human in that this Chinaman was contrasted with a man who was the incarnation of drunken brutality and who though supposedly the father of the child he kills is in no sense a type of the father produced by Christendom. "It does injustice to the men of the civilized world," he declared.

A third point made was that it was anti-legal in that it justified the Chinaman in shooting the brutal father after he had discovered the dead body of the child the father had beaten to death. We have lawlessness enough, the preacher argued, without having it justified on the screen for all the world to see.

Still another count against the play as seen by Mr. Willisford was that it was anti-Christian in the slur that is cast upon our religion when the missionary on his way to China to win souls to Christ is seen to present to this Chinaman a tract bearing the word "Hell" in large letters. "Does that word of four letters represent the gospel of Jesus Christ?" he queried. "Is that the genius of the teaching of the Man we worship? That may be all the theology that some people have, but if so, God pity them. It is an unfair representation and it is doing injustice to Christianity and to Christ to make such representations.

"Broken Blossoms" is also anti-racial. If the girl had not been murdered by logical sequence she would have become the wife of the Chinaman. In this day and age of the world we know the difficulties and problems that arise from such marriages. Not only does the girl who marries a yellow man find herself ostracized by her own social class, but worse yet she finds herself ostracized by the people of her husband's own race. Yet this play stands for that thing.

"It is anti-gospel. The act of the Chinaman in shooting the brutal father was defended by the sentiment: 'He got what was coming to him.' Perhaps he did. Perhaps he didn't get enough. But is that the genius of the Gospel? The genius of the Gospel is to reform men, to make them new, to change the blackened heart, to put out the spirit of brutality and put in the spirit of love. Christ said: 'I came not to destroy but to save.'

"I do not understand the play and I cannot see a single redeeming feature in this production. I have talked with a number of people and have not found any who saw in it the so-called great things that the advertising claimed for it."

C. K. Valton, of 339 West Ivy street, is the name of the gentleman who has entered into partnership with Archie Parker, of the Quality Grocery. Mr. Valton was recently from the north, but is now a full-fledged citizen of Glendale, and a wide-awake business man.

BRILLIANT FUNCTION

GLENDALE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ATTEND ANNUAL RECEPTION AND BALL IN L. A.

Quite a company of Glendale Knights Templar and their ladies went to Los Angeles Saturday night to attend the annual reception to the Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of California, Eminent Sir Benjamin F. Bledsoe. All the commanderies of the Southern California district participated in this brilliant function, which was held at the Shrine auditorium, gorgeous in its display of Templar national colors and other appropriate decorations which made a beautiful setting.

The various commanderies formed in the balconies and marched before the reviewing stand to the music of the full Knights Templar Band of Golden West Commandery No. 43. The different formations were most beautiful, the entire commandery forming on the floor in salute to the colors, then counter marching to assigned stations, then re-forming and passing in review before the Grand Commander after which there were exhibition drills by Los Angeles Commandery No. 9, Long Beach Commandery and Alhambra Commandery.

The main address of the evening was given by Right Eminent Sir Bledsoe, the theme being the loyalty of Templarism to our country in the present crisis through which it is passing. He expressed in forceful terms his disapproval of the attitude taken by a certain portion of the community in regard to violations of law and order, mentioning many isms including Bolshevism. Judge Bledsoe was followed by Eminent William Stephens, Governor of California, who is a member of Los Angeles No. 9 Commandery. The Governor's address was along lines similar to those followed by the previous speaker. He strongly urged that we support our ideals during these troubled times and his concluding statement brought a round of applause and laughter: "When you find a fellow talking isms, take care of him (pause) peacefully if you can, but take care of him."

The remainder of the evening was given to the Grand Templars' Ball, the beautiful gowns of the ladies and their knightly attendants making a scene of great brilliancy. From Glendale went the following knights and their ladies: Commander David Crofton, Eminent Sir Clem Moore, Eminent Sir R. V. Hogue, Eminent Sir Charles Peckham, Eminent Sir Daniels and Sirs Jennings, Lee, Campbell, Grumblin, Chandler, Moyse, Priaux, Eames, Redd, Von Oven, Pulliam, Worley, Boyer, Evans and Lawrence.

DOWN FOR BALL GAME

Wayne Smith of 302 North Maryland avenue had the pleasure of entertaining three of his fraternity brothers from the University of California for the week-end.

Six of the Sigma Chi boys journeyed down from Berkeley and participated in the football game between the University of California and the University of Southern California, Saturday. Byron Spote, Curtis Majors and Stanley Barnes went to San Diego to visit home folks over Sunday. Gordon Murray, Karl Deeds and Walter Eells spent the time with Wayne.

They were entertained at a Sigma Chi dance at the Rampart Apartments in Los Angeles.

REV. COLE'S SERMON

THE GOLDEN WEDGE OR HOW ONE MAN MAY CORRUPT A COMMUNITY

Extracts from Sunday morning's sermon by Rev. C. A. Cole at the Central Christian Church:

Text: Joshua 7:20, 21.
Campaign for conquest of the Promised Land had begun.

There were two difficulties in the way; two great fortified cities. One was Jericho. They took it by such maneuvers as were never before used in military tactics. Here went the priests with ark and rams horns and the people after them, going around the city, compassing it once a day for seven days, without noise or shout. Seventh day, seven times, long blast with rams' horns and a great shout. Walls fell and they took the city.

They now saw the frowning city of Ai. The first was so easy that they proposed to take it with fewer armed men. They marched up to reduce it. Soon, came flying back, (Continued on Page 4)

LOW PRICES INCREASE BUSINESS

One important fact that the profiteers are prone to overlook is brought out in the report of a special grand jury that has been inquiring into the cost of living. It is this:

"Lowering prices always enlarges the market and the number of purchasers, and consequently the possibility of such merchants to hold back the supply."

From this sane business point of view it is evident that many of the profiteering dealers are extremely unbusinesslike. This is said to be particularly true of wholesale dealers in foodstuffs, but appears to be true also of wholesalers and retailers in many lines of trade.

There is a constant tendency, the investigators find, on the part of such merchants to hold back the supply in order to make a few large profits instead of aiming at a large number of small profits.

"By holding back the supply they restrain the volume of sales, and consequently they have restrained the number, the volume, the aggregate of their profits."

The principle involved is expressed in this convenient formula: "The higher the price, the smaller the market; the lower the price, the larger the market."

It is a matter of American business history that nearly all the big fortunes made in mercantile pursuits have been made out of a big volume of business on a small margin—out of a multitude of petty profits. The great Woolworth building in New York City is a monument to this type of trade. Almost any department store will serve as an illustration. The lesson is one that any wholesaler or retailer who is unmoved by moral considerations would do well to ponder.

WHY AMERICA IS WORTH SAVING

"We have no classes in America," said Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, in a recent address in Minneapolis. "There is no barrier of class between a man and his fellows in this country." Yet hardly a day passes that some one is not "demanding" something for himself or his supposed class. The demands, when backed by force are Prussianism, whether in Germany, Russia or America.

The name of democracy, like many noble words, has a high and good meaning and also a dubious and damaged meaning. It has had a double pedigree. So far in her history America has stood for the highest meaning of democracy. She has demonstrated that representative government is practical, and she has guaranteed to every individual the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. A high quality of idealism has been the glory of our nation's history.

One has but to follow the story of the Italian republics or episodes in the French revolution to see that democracy has not always had this high meaning. And Russia today gives the world a type of low and dubious democracy. She has merely substituted the rule of some thirty men for the rule of one man, and it makes little difference whether liberty is crushed by the master, the mob or the oligarchy. In either case freedom is lost and rule of the majority abrogated.

If Americans continue to spell labor and capital in big letters, and fail to realize that all citizens are workers together, and human beings first of all, there is real danger that democracy here will become chaos and the ship of state go to pieces on the rocks of selfishness. If America cannot stop her own industrial wars and internal strife, she is in poor business posing before the world as a peace maker and mediator. The selfishness of classes is the greatest danger to the United States today.

It is the glory of America that she has lifted democracy out of its lowest terms into higher forms of liberty, co-operation and idealism. Every loyal citizen must cherish this vision and be willing to sacrifice in the time of war crisis. America is worth saving, because she has stood for the highest form of democracy for the world. Democratic republicanism in this country has been both practical and idealistic, and it must remain so.

WAR'S INFLUENCE ON ANTHEMS

Buried in the scrapheaps of war along with a few bales of imperial standards are some of the national anthems which have stirred the blood of many peoples with patriotism or revolt.

Soon the world's productivity is due to be augmented with a new peace time crop—a crop of revised and renovated national anthems—not to mention the tunes and stanzas which soon will be flourishing in the fertile field offered by the long list of new nations. Some of these nations never have had a national anthem, except that thrust upon them by the decree of an oppressing government, since the days when chanted fables and lilting folksongs went out of style in favor of this more modern form of crystallizing national ideals and ambitions.

In Germany, Russia, Austria, Hungary and Turkey genius should be at work by now evolving some stirring expression of a new era to take the place of national anthems, which, though they will doubtless remain as songs, certainly have lost any powerful appeal they once had. Russia's "Bozhe Zaria Chrany" (God protect the czar) probably would still stir up fighting blood in Petrograd, but it has lost its appropriateness.

Poor battered Serbia probably will still try to sing its old national song, "God in His Goodness." France, Belgium, England, Italy and America have added new glory to their famous songs.

When a man clamors for justice and the bars are let down for him, he will in nine cases out of ten take more than justice in order to salve his grievance.

The religious world is organized; the criminal world is organized; the financial world is organized. Is the laboring world the only one that has no rights in the matter?

Most of the writing and speech-making about the dignity of labor and the rights of the working classes is done by men who wouldn't wear overalls on a bet.

SPURIOUS DECORATIONS

The recent announcement that all sorts of war service decorations may be purchased in Washington at a comparatively small price and with no more trouble than is required to buy a cigar, and that a brisk trade is carried on in these insignia, will have the effect of casting doubt on the genuineness of decorations won by deeds of conspicuous valor. Instead of being a badge of honor to be proudly worn, he who possesses a decoration, conferred officially for unusual daring, will be subject to suspicion and such will prefer to hide the thing away lest he be classed with those not entitled to them.

Of course, he who would display a decoration not honestly won would be insensible to shame and it is astonishing that anyone would stoop to such traffic. The decorations conferred were of trifling value, but what they represent, if accorded for merit, makes them highly prized. That they should be cheapened in this manner constitutes a sad commentary on the sense of honor of those who resort to purchase of the bauble.

But while there are those who will stoop to sport spurious decorations an incident is reported that furnishes contrast to that sold story. A soldier refused to receive a Victory button to which, according to his discharge papers, he was entitled as one having been wounded. He had been in a hospital as the result of an operation, but had suffered no wounds. His sense of honor would not permit him to have a designation to which he was not entitled.

THE LIFE THAT WINS

The speaker at the Seventh-day Adventist Church Sabbath morning was Elder Difffenbacher, who recently came to California from his field of labor in the Carolinas. He delivered a strong address on the theme of salvation only through the merits of Christ.

The life which I now live is the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God who loved me and gave Himself for me" (Gal. 2:20), was the first text used.

There is only one life that wins—that is the life of Christ. Man cannot lift Himself heavenward one iota by his own efforts. Only as Christ lives in us do we live our count at all.

As the Ethiopian cannot change his skin by painful scouring nor the Hindu attain righteousness by tedious pilgrimages, so man is of himself powerless to efface the marks of sin or atone for evil done.

When one is converted, he is a new creation, not a doctor-up, old creature, but a new creature entirely. Thoughts, words, deeds—all are new.

Christ wishes to dwell in the heart of His people. Not to make a weekly or occasional visit, but to abide there—make it His home. Christ will be in you the hope at glory. Col. 1:27. He dwells in the heart of the converted drunkard, in the heart of the savage alike, when the room of the heart is cleansed of sin.

In Christ dwelleth all the fullness of the God head bodily. Col. 2:9. If Christ dwells in our hearts by faith (Eph. 3:17) we shall be filled with all the fullness of God.

Blessed partnership to be one with God and Christ, even in this life! Take heed, however, that Christ is the "One" not your faulty self.

If sins are confessed, a clean page is substituted for the soiled one, and harmony reigns between men and God. Let Him touch the chords of your life and bring out the perfect harmony. The master artist alone knows what keys to touch to bring out a well-ordered life.

An organist was once practicing one of Mendelssohn's masterpieces, but making sad work of it, when the composer himself entered the church and craved the privilege of playing the instrument. Though thrice rudely repulsed his persistence finally won the grudging consent of the organist to touch the keys. Once seated, the wonderful melody, sure and true, that came from his fingers, proclaimed him a player of unusual power and the church soon filled with people attracted by the music. The now-shamed organist craved forgiveness and the name of his guest. That name—Mendelssohn—was sufficient to make a craven of the erstwhile churl.

As God beholds the discordant lives of his followers He longs to bring out the true melody, He alone is capable of doing.

Let Him have His way with you and put His Kingdom in your heart, that He may put you in His Kingdom.

put to utter rout, trembling and smitten with sudden cowardice and the people fell upon their knees and Joshua pleaded with the Lord, "Oh, why hast thou brought us out of Egypt to deliver us into the hands of our enemies?" "Get up. The people have sinned. They have taken of the accursed thing. Up, sanctify the people and I will deliver them."

What was the trouble? Gow was not less able. His promise was just as good.

"Ye have sinned in the accursed (devoted) thing." He had forbidden the appropriation of the spoils, of the silver and gold and vessels of brass and iron, etc., lest they make the camp of Israel accursed and trouble it.

What was the trouble? God was appropriation to personal use of that which belonged to God. Not one farthing was to be put to personal use, and somebody had been appropriating it.

Who were guilty? The search. The rams' horn sound and all Israel assembled before their tents and lots were cast by divine command. There was one whose heart was in his throat, yet he probably reasoned within himself, "Nobody saw me," etc.

Lot cast. Tribe of Judah taken. Lot cast again. It was for the family of Zarthites. The man shook and trembled now. Lot cast again and the name of Achan was announced. Only one man in Israel had been guilty of the accursed thing. One man only, what a tribute to the general honesty of his comrades! He was summoned before Joshua. The confession. Note it. "I saw, I coveted, I took the golden wedge."

I saw, I looked at it too often. I coveted it for my personal use. I took it. Oh, the self-propagating power of sin! The lust of the eye; the lust of the flesh!

The singular, severe punishment. In spite of the confession, stoned to death. Remember, this was a nation at its birth. The lesson must be learned. Indulgence now toward an evil doer may in the final result be the most utter cruelty to society and one's honest fellow citizens. And there is nothing that must be exalted more in any community or government than sanctity of law.

Lessons

1. Sin is always an offense against God. So with Achan and so with every man. David after his terrible sin with Bathsheba went staggering up to his chamber crying, "Have mercy on me, O God, for against thee and thee only have I sinned and done this evil in thy sight." He had sinned against Bathsheba and against Uriah and against every man and woman in Israel but so overwhelming was his sense of sin against the law of God and in his holy eyes that it seemed only as against Him. You've got to think of that friend!

2. Sin is always suicidal. It works automatically. The law says, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die. Not because God said so, but because that law is written in the nerve and fibre of our very beings and constitutions. You break the law of health and you die for it. It is always suicidal, every sin. Achan betrayed his own understanding of this fact when he confessed that he had hidden the wedge in his tent. Why did he hide it? When he was digging in the earth, why did he look over his shoulder? He had lost his self-respect and ceased to be an honest man. Any sin will do the same for you and me.

3. No man liveth unto himself, dieth unto himself and no man sinneth unto himself. It is an endless chain.

"Israel hath sinned against me in the accursed thing," though in fact only one man was guilty of this. Yet all Israel shared in the dire consequences.

One man can corrupt a community. One leak in a department of our government will scandalize the nation, state or city. One dagger thrust in the hand of one man brings all the great nations of the world into carnage and war. One hypocrite in the church at Corinth reduced the church to nil in power and efficiency. And it's always so.

4. What is it stands between the church in any place and the accomplishing of great things for God? What is it stands in the way of any great campaign which God has assigned the church and where the church has failed and fled from the conquest? It is the sin of appropriating things that belong to Him.

No, I'm not talking altogether about money. While it is true that most of us sin in the stewardship of money. I am not sure that is the largest consideration. God has made every man and woman here the steward of certain things, with a clear understanding that what he has reserved for his own special use shall not be withheld from Him. He allows us to use a certain amount of our time and strength and talent for ourselves, in wise ways, but it is for us to determine as between ourselves and God, how much belongs to Him.

We hear the thrilling call of the old-time prophet, "Will a man rob God?" Yet the Lord said, "Ye have robbed Me." But we say, "Wherein have we robbed thee?" In "Withholding your tithes and offerings, your time and your energy, as well as your substance, ye have robbed me."

The sin of using for ourselves what belongs to God is today responsible for much of the weakness, etc.

David James Burrell tells of a pastor of an old church in a western state who felt that his people were growing lukewarm and apathetic to the demands of God and were failing to rightly represent Him. They were worshiping in an old church that had been standing from time immemorial, and he went before them and took this text. He delivered a powerful sermon that day on the wedge of gold. "You are living in cedar houses while God is dwelling in these poor premises." As a result one of the greatest churches stands there today. A great power in community.

5. There's a brighter side to this old story. The people made their peace, the evil-doer was dealt with, the covenant was renewed. They heeded the call, "Up, sanctify yourselves, and the next day they marched again against Ai and came back great victors. Their enemies fled before them as the leaves are scattered before an autumn wind.

Maybe, while I have been preaching there are men and women before me who feel that they have been guilty of the appropriation of gifts, of things belonging to God and are asking, "How much of time and of strength and of the means with which He has blessed me, should I be giving to Him?" That's for you to decide. But if there has anything been said that calls to your mind where you have used the thing for self that should have been devoted to God, if there is anything wrong in your life, that there is something hidden in your tent that belongs to Him, I pray you to get right with Him.

We've all sinned and come short. Let's build better in the coming days; let us give God His own. Up, sanctify yourselves!

SUNLAND

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Johnson spent Sunday in Pomona.

Mrs. S. D. Percey and Mrs. M. Shaw are out on the Red Cross Drive. Have you joined?

Mrs. L. G. Goodman moved Friday to Hansen Heights to be near his work in the oil well.

A slight frost greeted the early risers Thursday morning. It was not heavy enough to nip the tomato and pumpkin vines.

Mr. Craig is driving one of the busses for A. J. Richardson.

Mrs. Ida Williams spent Monday shopping in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Beck Meyer were visitors at the Spencer home this week.

Charley Orcutt, wife and daughter, Miss Ruby, of Pasadena, and Mr. and Mrs. B. Frost, of Los Angeles, were guests at the home of G. E. Huse, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rutledge, of Los Angeles, were the Sunday guests of Miss Menita Huse. Mr. Rutledge attended Christian Endeavor at the First Baptist Church.

There is such a demand for lots in Sunland, why don't some of these big land owners do some sub-dividing?

Mr. and Mrs. John Muller of Anaheim is the guest this week at the Park Hotel.

Under the auspices of the La Canada Center of the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau, a deciduous tree-pruning demonstration will be held at the Percy ranch, Thursday, November 13th, at 1:30 p. m. Dr. J. C. Whittier, of the University of California, will attend and have charge of the demonstration. Dr. Whittier is one of the best known authorities on deciduous tree culture in the United States. A large attendance is desired. Everybody interested is requested to attend.

Death came as a blessed release Sunday morning, November 2d, at 2:00 o'clock to Clarence B. Morgan at his home in Sunland. Mr. Morgan had been a sufferer for many months with tubercular trouble. In spite of his suffering he always had a cheering, helpful word for everyone he came in contact with, and his high ideals and sterling character commanded the admiration of all who knew him. Deceased was born in Ashland, Miss., January 12, 1883.

His health began to fail at the age of 21 and he came to California. In 1909 he was employed as salesmen in the leading shoe stores of Los Angeles. In 1912 he went into business for himself at San Pedro. About two years ago he came to Sunland, thinking the air and sunshine would restore him to health, but the disease had progressed too far to do him much good. Saturday he sent for his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Trueblood, and told them he was going on a journey and wished to bid them good-bye. He leaves two sisters and two brothers, Mrs. L. B. Winborn, of Silver Creek, Miss., and Miss Iva Morgan, of Sterling, Colorado; B. F. Morgan, of Hughes, Arkansas, and Will O. Morgan, of Memphis, Tenn. The funeral services were held at the Little Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn Memorial Park Tuesday at 3:00 o'clock. The floral offerings were beautiful, the casket being entirely hid with beautiful flowers.

TUJUNGA

The handling of firearms among small boys should be discouraged by the parents of small boys.

Last week one of the Zitto boys accidentally shot Jack Perroni through both legs below the knee, when trying to unload the gun of its shell. Jack was immediately taken to Glendale where the wound was treated and as yet no serious symptoms have developed, though he is obliged to remain in bed.

A letter received from Mr. Hubbard from Mitchell, Dakota, says that he will return to Tujunga before long.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas were in Tujunga the first of the week looking after their place remaining for a few days.

Mr. Fairchild of Michigan street has been quite ill with a severe cold that had some symptoms of last year's "flu."

The Ladies' Aid held its next session at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wieman on El Centro, Thursday, Nov. 7th.

Dr. Wilkinson has returned from the hospital at Glendale and is feeling very much improved.

The usual Hallowe'en pranks were indulged in on that night and some little trouble made, but everyone seems to think the boys in Tujunga were not the mischief makers.

The only reason the land boom will stop in this section is when there is no more to sell. If the number of people who come up every day purchase we will soon be a blooming city and have to either incorporate, or do something else for self-government. Many houses are being started, and lots cleaned off. The surveyors are at work cutting in new roads and renumbering the lots.

A reception for the teachers of Glorieta Heights School is scheduled to come off on Friday evening, November 7th. This was postponed two weeks ago on account of the rain, and it is hoped it will be a pleasant affair, the weather permitting.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, who were reunited at Ventura on October 24th, are now living at their ranch home at the end of Sunset boulevard, and we understand will be there all winter.

Harrison Hall was up from Huntington Park on Wednesday, looking after his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Saxby, who purchased the Green acre a short time ago, are tenting on the place until they can build. They sold their place in Venice and are now bona fide residents of Tujunga.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster, who camped out on the highway last summer, have taken up their residence at the home place of Miss Arthur on San Ysidro Road.

The Library will be opened hereafter on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, at 2 p. m., and not on Monday evening as heretofore.

Within the next two or three weeks the Stage Company is contemplating the addition of another morning run to Los Angeles and another afternoon run out of Los Angeles, also the addition of a run to Glendale for taking care of High

Mrs. Minnie Martin is putting an addition to her house on San Ysidro Road.
